New Year With a New Library

The main construction phase has wrapped up at the city's new public library behind City Hall, and Library Director Harry Williams is expecting a citywide celebration of the facility's opening in December or early 2004.

The 75,000 square foot building was designed by the Summit-based architectural firm The Biber Partnership and was built by Silcon, Inc., of Elizabeth and Hall Building Corp. of Farmingdale. The 32,000 square foot library is wired for high-speed Internet access, contains an attractive fireplace, a coffee shop and café and has terraces that overlook the Rahway River for patrons to read and relax. The children's department is nearly doubled in size—from 2,800 square feet to 5,400 square feet—resulting in expanded and improved programs for younger residents.

The new library is a revolutionary public-private partnership that involves selling the top two floors to a private firm and using the remainder of the building as public library space. This is the first such agreement in New Jersey and only one of a handful throughout the nation. The sale is expected to net $3.5 million to help fund the building's construction.

The city received approximately $7.4 million from the federal and state governments, with $3 million to come from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and $1.4 million from the state Office of Emergency Management. The United States Economic Development Administration is contributing $1 million, and the city has been awarded a state library grant of over $2 million.

The federal and state funds were a product of Hurricane Floyd, which swept through Rahway in September, 1999 with high winds and over a foot of rain. Because the old library at the intersection of St. Georges and Central Avenues sat on a flood plain of the Robinson's Branch of the Rahway River, the library sustained some $1 million in flood damage and was deemed too expensive to rebuild (this being the eighth flood in the library's 32-year history at the site). Last year, the old library was demolished and replaced by an expanded park with five new tennis courts.

Please tune in to Comcast Channel 34 and the city's Web site at <http://www.cityofrahway.com> for updated information on the library opening and hours of operation.

City Remembers 9-11

in the terrorist attacks on the United States on September 11, 2001. The ceremony began at 9:58 A.M., marking the collapse of the World Trade Center's south tower on the morning of September 11, 2001.

Fire Chief Harold Stahl was the host of the event, which kicked off with a presentation of colors and pledge of allegiance by the Rahway High School JROTC, the tolling of the fire bell for fallen firefighters and a moment of silence. Fire Captains William Young, Richard Misita and William McQueeney; Battalion Chiefs Charles Amasio and Gerard Dodman; Police Chief Edward Hudak and Mayor James J. Kennedy read of the names of the firefighters, police officers and Rahway residents, respectively, who died in the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center. Fire Department Chaplain and St. Mark's Church Pastor Rev. William Morris and Second Presbyterian Church Pastor Rev. Douglas Muller offered prayers for those in attendance, and Firefighter Rick Fleischman played Amazing Grace on bagpipes.

Mayor's

Arts on the Rise in Rahway

I've always enjoyed pointing out "hidden treasures" of Rahway that are not always known to the general public. They may have a historical or educational theme, or could be about a service available to residents that is not utilized to its full possibility.

Right in our downtown sits the Arts Guild of Rahway, the centerpiece of a small but growing arts community that is slowly helping Rahway redefine itself as a hotspot for artists.

For many old-timers, the building is remembered as the home of the original public library. The front section of the building was constructed in 1869 and was designed, according to its founders, "to be a credit to them [the library trustees] and the City of Rahway." The Italianate design of the front was capped with a glass skylight and roof ventilators that kept the building cool in the summer. A Queen Anne-style addition was built in 1891 that doubled the library's size and features. It features ornate oak trim and a 12-foot, Tiffany-inspired stained glass skylight.

The "old" library was converted into the city's recreation center after a "new" library rose at the corner of St. Georges and Central Avenues in 1967. Thirty-six years later, we are now celebrating the grand opening of Rahway's third public library behind City Hall.

In 1998, we were concerned about the deterioration of the Claude Reed recreation center on Irving Street and wanted this historic structure to complement the nearby neighborhood that would soon give birth to our downtown Arts District. Using a federal grant, we were able to transform the front section of the building into a 1,200 square foot art gallery and space for musical performances. We are presently working to upgrade the building's antiquated electrical system and the area of the building now used for art classes.

The Arts Guild of Rahway has been nothing short of a phenomenal success. Since March of 1999, 26 exhibits by over 300 artists have been joined by 45 live music concerts at the Arts Guild. Art classes in the building and in nearby St. Mark's Church began in 2000 and are now offered several times each year.

"Right in our downtown sits the Arts Guild of Rahway, the centerpiece of a small but growing arts community that is slowly helping Rahway redefine itself as a hotspot for artists."

—Mayor James Kennedy

This year alone, the Arts Guild will be displaying work by over 65 New Jersey professional artists and some 20 Rahway High School students. The Arts Guild has also been home to independent film screenings, artist networking events, art-related seminars and lectures and receptions for the Westfield Symphony Orchestra and the Rahway Center Partnership. Past shows at the Arts Guild have been prominently featured in newspapers like the Home News Tribune, Star-Ledger and New York Times.

Please look for upcoming events at the Arts Guild of Rahway on page 11 of the Rahway Review, on Comcast Channel 34, in area newspapers and on the Internet at <http://www.rahwayartsguild.org>.

You'll be pleasantly surprised how we're working on growing the arts right here in Rahway.

MAYOR

Twenty-six Streets Resurfaced This Fall

Mayor James J. Kennedy announced that the city is in the midst of resurfacing sections of 26 streets this fall. In August, the City Council awarded bids of $447,824.35 to Mark Paving of Kearny, $502,072.46 to PNA Construction of Colonia and $210,756.00 to Marbell Construction of Carlstadt to resurface the following sections of roadway in Rahway:

- Whittier St., from Linden Ave. to city line

The work is expected to be completed by the end of the year, weather permitting. Residents are asked to contact the City Engineer at (732) 827-2176 if they have any questions or concerns.

Franklin School Wing Named for Rahway's Vagelos of Merck

Officials from the city and Board of Education joined retired Merck CEO and Rahway native Dr. P. Roy Vagelos on October 8 to dedicate the new addition to Franklin Elementary School as the P. Roy Vagelos Early Childhood Center.

The new two-story addition features seven classrooms, a medical suite, three small group instructional areas, a 1,000 square foot extension to the school cafeteria and a new outdoor courtyard. Each classroom has its own restroom for students and expanded storage for instructional materials. All instructional rooms are pre-wired for Internet access.

The Vagelos Center houses Franklin School's prekindergarten and kindergarten classes. The 21,280-square-foot facility was built by Kario Construction Company of Paterson and the architect was Faridy, Veisz, Fraytak, PC, of Trenton.

Dr. Vagelos was raised in Rahway as the son of Greek immigrants, is an alumnus of Franklin School and a 1947 graduate of Rahway High School. During his high school years, he worked at his family's restaurant on Irving Street and was able to meet many Merck employees and discuss careers in medicine with them.

After graduation, Vagelos enrolled in the University of Pennsylvania, where he also attended medical school. Following his graduation from medical school, he worked at Massachusetts General Hospital and later served at the National Institute of Health and Washington University in Saint Louis. During his long career at Merck & Company, Inc., Vagelos led the company to be a global leader in pharmaceuticals and was at the helm when Merck was named as one of the most highly-regarded corporations in the nation.

In 2001, he created the Vagelos Scholarship for Rahway High School seniors. The scholarships, which cover all college costs not funded through direct grants from the student's college or university, are for RHS seniors who have been accepted to one of the nation's top 25 colleges and universities (as ranked by the most recent edition of U.S. News & World Report). The program will be expanded for RHS juniors this year.

"Dr. Vagelos joins astronomer Carl Sagan and economist Milton Friedman as one of the most successful and influential people to come out of our public school system," said Mayor James Kennedy. "His compassion and vision have given new encouragement to some of our most ambitious young people. I'm confident that the new Dr. P. Roy Vagelos Early Childhood Center will inspire a new generation of leaders and decision-makers who hail from Rahway."

"Dr. Vagelos has long made all of us proud here in Rahway," said Board of Education President Theresa Mikajlo. "This new center is a great resource that will improve education for our youngest, most vulnerable students and instill in them a lifelong appreciation of learning and a hunger to make our community a better place."

Additions Also Completed at Grover Cleveland; Madison, Roosevelt to follow

Additions were also completed at Grover Cleveland Elementary School this summer. The work included the construction of four new classrooms, two small group instruction rooms and a faculty room over the side entrance.

The early childhood additions to Madison and Roosevelt Schools are expected to be completed later in the school year.

The new addition at Grover Cleveland School houses four classrooms, two group instruction rooms and a faculty room over the side entrance.

Teacher Hilda Pion and paraprofessional Giselle Petaroia work with students at the Summer English Immersion Program held at Grover Cleveland School.

Q: What did you do this summer?

A: We went to school!

While many students spent their summer dreaming of the Jersey Shore, playing with friends or just sleeping late, some 100 Rahway public school students and 15 teachers spent their summer continuing their educations.

Special needs students attended an extended year program housed at the district's rented space at St. Thomas Parish Center on St. Georges Avenue. Many of the students in this program worked with the same classroom teacher they had during the school year.

Through an arrangement between the JFK Center, the Rahway Boys & Girls Club and the district, second and third grade students in need of extra academic help attended tutoring during July.

Other students spent their summer at Grover Cleveland School receiving assistance with reading, writing and arithmetic while mastering the English language.

PARTNERSHIP

Hometown Holiday Festival Lights City

For many years the Tree lighting ceremony at City Hall Plaza on the Friday after Thanksgiving has been a time for families to gather and kick off the holiday season.

Last year we saw the introduction of the first annual "Holiday Festival of Trees" and everyone had an opportunity to experience a magical, enchanted forest of Decorated (artificial) Holiday trees and actually own one by bidding in a silent auction.

This year Rahway's downtown takes the next step in becoming a primary destination for the Thanksgiving Holiday weekend. This year there will be great fun and excitement as we celebrate the first Annual Rahway Hometown Holiday Festival Weekend. It will be a weekend packed with enchanted forests, to a fun display of the holiday giants, and a gourmet taste of Rahway's best restaurants. This year is even more special as we will also be celebrating 100 years of Merck & Co. in Rahway.

The festival starts with the second annual "Festival of Trees" and adds the new "Festival of Wreaths." The trees and wreaths are donated fully decorated and with festive lights by local businesses, organizations and individuals. These trees and wreaths will be displayed at the Masonic Hall on Irving Street in downtown Rahway for public viewing on Friday Nov. 28 thru Sunday Nov. 30. The trees and wreaths will also be available for a silent auction with the winner taking home a holiday masterpiece. Anyone wishing to participate should call the Rahway Center Partnership at (732) 396-3545. Participants are able to obtain the tree or basic wreaths of their choice at 50 percent off wholesale from our corporate sponsor, National Tree.

On Friday you will also have a chance to enjoy the annual Tree lighting and arrival of Santa, a special presentation of White Christmas at the Union County Arts Center, and this year a special "festival of Giants Display" down Main and Cherry Streets, which will be a massive display of dozens of Holiday Blowup favorites.

Saturday we have the breakfast and lunch with Santa at the Masonic Hall (call RCP for reservations) and the return of the "Taste of Rahway." From Mexican to Brazilian to Spanish to Italian to hometown American cuisine and finishing off with fine desserts, you can taste the best of what Rahway has to offer. The tasting will be held on Saturday at the Masonic Hall on Irving Street from 6:00 till 9:30 P.M., with tickets available at participating restaurants and the RCP for $25.00 each.

All weekend long there will be special art shows at the Arts Guild, and the new Edge Gallery, located at 1579 Irving Street. Throughout the weekend there will be a special child car seat safety inspection by the Rahway Police department at the Festival of Trees and Sunday we will have a continuation of the Festival with a visit from Santa and the elves. 2003 will be the time to start planning to be here this year and every year to dine, enjoy and participate in the Annual Rahway Hometown Holiday Festival Weekend

Combined Sewer Overflow Separation

Project Update

The city's Combined Sewer Overflow (CSO) project is a five-year project to upgrade Rahway's storm and sanitary sewer systems. The project commenced in February, 2000 and will be complete by December, 2004. The project is required as part of an Administrative Consent Order reached with the city and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

Many older areas of Rahway were constructed with a combined sewer that carries both sanitary waste from homes and businesses as well as stormwater runoff from streets and properties. Both the sanitary waste and stormwater travel through this combined system to the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority plant for treatment. During heavy rainstorms, the system is unable to handle the increased flow of water and waste and may be discharged into the Rahway River and its tributaries. In addition to the health hazards this may cause, city taxpayers were unnecessarily paying for the treatment of stormwater at the RVSA facility.

The combined sewer overflow and sewer separation project consists of disconnecting the roadway storm sewer catch basins and pipes from the remaining combined storm and sanitary sewer system. Once this work is complete the potential for sanitary sewer overflow into the local rivers will be eliminated, and therefore maintain and improve the water quality of the rivers flowing from the city.

The construction portion of this project is divided into two phases, Phases I and II. Phase I construction is complete and was done by Niram, Inc. of Boonton, New Jersey. Phase II construction is approximately 50 percent complete and is being done by JFS Development and Associates, LLC of Hackensack, New Jersey. The storm sewer separation work that is underway this fall is or will be conducted within the following streets: Bryant Street, West Milton Avenue, West Cherry Street, Monroe Street, Main Street and East Cherry Street.

During 2004, the final phase of the project will consist of testing and the closure of the combined sewer overflow outlets to the rivers.

The cost of the project, approximately $3,375,000, is funded through the New Jersey Environmental Infrastructure Financing Program.

Why Won't the City Remove My Street Tree?

Rahway is responsible over 6,600 shade trees in our city and has the honor of being named Tree City USA for its care and promotion of healthy trees. These trees help contribute to the attractive character of Rahway and it is also estimated that each street tree adds $5,000 to the value of a home and keeps homes cooler in the summer. The city will remove a street tree only if it is dead or is in immediate danger to life and property.

United Water Replaces Mains

Mayor James J. Kennedy announced that United Water replaced 1,500 feet of a 16-inch water main under Madison Avenue from Westfield Avenue to Stone Street this summer. United Water also replaced 280 feet of 16-inch water main under Hamilton Street from Madison Avenue to Fowler Place.

The total cost of the project is $452,000 and is funded through the city's capital improvement agreement with United Water. The contractor selected to perform the work is J. Fletcher Creamer, Inc., of Hackensack.

"The residents of the neighborhood around Madison Avenue have been plagued for years by breaks in the main which has disrupted water delivery and created a poor road surface," said Kennedy. "When completed, this new water main will give them a more reliable water service and smoother travel down Madison Avenue."

Kennedy added that United Water plans to repair the Madison Avenue water main between Stone Street and Maple Avenue next year and between Maple and W. Lake Avenues in 2005.

Rahway Hospital Joins Robert Wood Johnson

The leadership of Rahway Hospital signed an agreement in October to become an affiliate member of the Robert Wood Johnson Health System, a move that gives the 267-bed community hospital a new name—Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway—and greater access to healthcare resources.

“Nobody does it better than Robert Wood Johnson,” said Kirk C. Tice, Rahway’s president and CEO. “On behalf of our Board of Governors and the entire community, we are proud to join this outstanding hospital system.”

Rahway becomes the fourth member of the Robert Wood Johnson Health System, joining the flagship Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick, Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Hamilton, Mercer County, and Children’s Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

Tice said membership in the Robert Wood Johnson Health System will enable his hospital to continue its tradition of providing care to the people in Union County and the region, as it has done since its founding in 1917.

“This affiliation will improve patient care, provide additional access to capital and help in the recruiting of talented healthcare professionals,” said Tice, who will continue in the position of president and CEO of Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway. “Being able to combine resources with a hospital such as Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, one of the nation’s leading academic medical centers, will help us enhance our clinical capabilities in areas such as oncology, cardiology, pediatrics and more.”

Harvey A. Holzberg, president of the Robert Wood Johnson Health System and president and CEO of Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick, said the addition of Rahway adds value to the Health System by extending its geographic coverage, strengthening and streamlining its referral lines for specialized treatments and expanding its teaching programs. Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick is the principal hospital of The University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ)—Robert Wood Johnson Medical School.

“We welcome Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway into our hospital family,” Holzberg said. “This fine community hospital provides outstanding primary care services and today’s announcement strengthens that tradition. Furthermore, residents of this area will now benefit by improved access to highly specialized services available through Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, the region’s leading academic medical center.”

Rahway Hospital had been searching for affiliation partners for several years, said

G. Allen Geyer, chairman of the hospital’s Board of Governors. In evaluating potential partners, the board preferred a nonprofit entity with a charitable mission consistent with its own, he said. It also looked for a partner with a strong presence in Central New Jersey, significant financial resources and a history of demonstrating a commitment to quality care.

“The Robert Wood Johnson Health System met all those requirements and more,” Geyer said. “This is an exciting new chapter in our hospital’s history and a great occasion for the community.”

Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway is located on Stone Street. Its service area includes the municipalities of Rahway, Linden, Clark, Carteret, Woodbridge Township and surrounding towns of Garwood, Cranford, Winfield, Roselle, Roselle Park, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, and sections of Edison.

According to the Robert Wood Johnson Health System affiliation agreement, the hospital in Rahway will become a member of the Robert Wood Johnson Health Care Corp., the parent company of Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital, Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Hamilton, and Children’s Specialized Hospital. The affiliation was approved in State Superior Court in Union County on August 25 after a review by the New Jersey Department of Health and Senior Services and the state Attorney General’s office.

Under the agreement, Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at Rahway will maintain its own board and continue to exercise significant local control. In addition, the hospital’s foundation will remain independent in support of the hospital’s mission.

“Rahway Hospital may be getting a new name, but its mission of delivering quality healthcare to the local community will remain the same,” said Richard K. Schrupf, chairman of the Robert Wood Johnson Health Care Corp.

DPW crews will make a minimum of two passes on every street to collect leaves during those weeks. Leaves should be placed in piles along the curb or placed in biodegradable paper leaf bags available at most hardware stores. Leaves placed in plastic bags or trash cans will not be collected. Please call the city’s leaf hotline at (732) 827-2063 during leaf collection season to learn where DPW crews will be working that day.

Police to Inspect, Install Child Safety Seats November 29

Each year, nearly 1,700 children die and nearly 250,000 are injured as occupants of motor vehicles. According to a nation wide study conducted by the National Safe Kids Campaign, almost half of all parents make major mistakes when it comes to protecting their children in motor vehicles. Approximately 33 percent of children under the age of 14 use the wrong restraint type for their age and size. Inappropriately restrained children are nearly three and a half times more likely to suffer a severe injury in a crash than their appropriately restrained peers. Child safety seats are extremely effective when properly used and installed, reducing the risk of death by up to 71 percent.

The Rahway Police Department Community Assistance Team and Traffic Department now have specially trained safety technicians who can properly install child safety seats. The first official "Safety Seat Check Up" will take place on Saturday, November 29, from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M.

The safety seat inspection station will be located in the parking lot behind the Union County Art Center. We encourage anyone who would like to ensure that his or her child safety seat is properly installed or would like to learn the proper technique for installing the seat to attend this free event. This clinic is especially helpful for first time parents! The checkpoint also conveniently coincides with the Festival of Trees Breakfast and Lunch with Santa Claus, which will take place directly across the street at the Masonic Temple.

For more information about this service, please contact the Rahway Police Department Community Assistance Team at (732) 827-2179.

Safety Seat Tips

- Always read and follow the vehicle owner's manual and child safety seat instructions.
- Choose a child safety seat that is appropriate for the child's size and age.
- Get a tight fit. Properly installed seats should not move more than 1 inch from side to side or toward the front of the vehicle.
- Keep harness straps snug and flat. Fasten the harness clip at armpit level.
- Restrain all children ages 12 and under properly in the back seat on every ride and never put a rear-facing child in a front seat with an active passenger air bag.
- Be certain that everyone in the car is correctly buckled, even on short trips!

Welcome, Chiefs! Congratulations are in order for newly appointed Police Chief Edward Hudak, left, and Fire Chief Harold Stahl, right. The pair were recently named to their respective positions earlier this year by Mayor James Kennedy. Hudak brings with him 25 years of experience with the Rahway Police Department, while Stahl has 31 years of experience with the Rahway Fire Department.

'Go-peds' Are illegal in New Jersey!

Even as winter approaches, Rahway residents will be enjoying the outdoors, traveling by car, foot, train, bike or other means of transport. One of the newer products available is the "go-ped." A go-ped is a motorized scooter that resembles a skateboard with an upright handle in front. Unlike most popular, foot-powered scooters, a go-ped is powered by a rear motor that can propel the go-ped at speeds of approximately 20 mph. The New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles defines a vehicle powered by something other than human feet as a motor vehicle.

The state Division of Motor Vehicles refuses to register go-peds because they do not conform to NJ Department of Transportation safety standards (no lights, no blinkers, no speedometer, etc.). Because go-peds are considered motor vehicles and cannot be registered, insured or licensed, it is illegal to operate them on any public roadway or property in New Jersey.

It is the obligation of the Rahway Police Department to ensure the safety of all members of our community and the Department will enforce state laws regulating the operation of motor vehicles. Any individual who illegally operates a go-ped will be issued a motor vehicle summons under title 39:3-4, operating an unregistered vehicle. The go-ped also will be impounded. Juvenile offenders will be taken to police headquarters and their parent/guardian will be notified.

For more information, contact the Rahway Police Department's Community Assistance Team (CAT) at (732) 827-2179.

Keep Our Streets Safe In The Snow

The Rahway Police Department reminds residents that if you reside on a street posted "No Parking When Road is Snow Covered," you are required to remove your vehicle from the street when it snows. The Police Department needs your cooperation so the streets can be plowed efficiently and they can be kept safe.

If your vehicle is not removed during a snowfall, it will be subject to a summons and impoundment. Please avoid this hassle and move your vehicle prior to an impending storm.

The Rahway Traffic Bureau has a list of streets that fall under this ordinance. For more information, contact the Bureau at (732) 827-2073.

Discount Prescription Card Available to Rahway Seniors

Applications are still being accepted for enrollment into Rahway's own Senior Preferred Prescription Card program offered by the Garden State Pharmacy Owners Providers Services (GSPOPS). The program allows Rahway residents over the age of 55 to obtain a discount of between 10 and 50 percent for the cost of prescription drugs. The program is also available to city residents who are receiving Social Security Disability benefits.

The GSPOPS savings card is accepted by most pharmacists throughout the nation. No mail-order forms are required. The annual membership fee for the program is only $20. The service will be provided to Rahway seniors at no cost to the city. There are no income restrictions for membership in GSPOPS and no exclusions for pre-existing conditions. There are no limits on the quantities or refills and requires no deductibles to be met. All Federal Legend brand name and generic drugs are included.

Working residents who are already covered by their employer's prescription plan can still take advantage of the discounts offered by GSPOPS for prescription drugs not covered by their plan or in cases where generic medicine would cost more under their co-payment than it would if filled with GSPOPS.

Information brochures, which include a registration form, are available at the Senior Citizens Center, City Hall and other public buildings in Rahway. Information on the GSPOPS card is also posted on the city's Web site, www.cityofrahway.com and Comcast Channel 34.

Arts Guild Upcoming Art Exhibit

Face to Face/ Non-Formal Environmental Photographic Portraits

November 19- December 12, 2003

Curated by Nancy J. Ori (Berkley Heights)

Reception: Sunday, November 23, 1:00-4:00 P.M.

Featured Artists: Michael Creem, Ellen Denuto, Nancy Ori, Harvey Stein and John Wyatt

Photographs chosen for this exhibit curated by well-known New Jersey photographer Nancy Ori are examples of portraiture in context—people in their environments rather than “studio” type format portraits. As well as an informal expression of the character and nature of the subjects, it is an indication of the artists’ craft—an outgrowth of their dedication and perseverance in the pursuit of quality work.

“Like any artist, the photographer must believe in what he or she is doing and work with great passion,” said Ori. “If you truly commit to this, you will be taken care of. Your life and your work will progress forward as you are learning to see more clearly. It’s really about commitment. It is required at every level and becomes a continuous effort. Commitment to a high standard of craftsmanship or technique is basic. You can’t speak the language if you don’t know the words. Commitment to staying long enough in a place or with a particular project in order to understand it and have it speak to you. This takes time and resources. And of course, commitment to discovering how to give something back to the process by supporting or enlightening others.”
