PRESS RELEASE

UNITED WATER ISSUES ANNUAL WATER QUALITY REPORT

Customers Can Access the Consumer Confidence Report on the Web

RAHWAY, NJ, June 9, 2015 – United Water announced today that the company’s annual Consumer Confidence Report (CCR) is available online for customers. The report details the quality of drinking water provided to customers during 2014.

“We’re pleased to advise our customers that our water continues to meet or exceed all state and federal regulations for safe drinking water,” said Chris Riat, senior director of contract operations. “The report is required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (NJDEP). We believe the CCR is an important tool in educating our customers about the excellent quality of their tap water.”

Two years ago, the EPA announced that the CCR may be delivered electronically to customers via a direct URL address. “In today’s digital age, this new delivery method is not only more cost efficient and eco-friendly, but also supports our commitment to environmental stewardship,” added Riat.

Customers were notified via a bill message of the web address that will take them directly to their specific water quality report. The direct link to the report is www.unitedwater.com/Rahway/CCR2014.

Printed copies of the report are also available. Customers can call the company’s customer service center at 1-877-303-2435 and request a copy be mailed to their home. Representatives are available Monday through Friday, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. EST. In addition, copies of the report can be found at local libraries, municipal offices and senior centers.
